PRESIDENT'S REPORT

DISTINCTIVE HOMES

I welcome players and officials of South Melbourne Soccer Club to Hindmarsh Stadium. Our club's rivalry precedes the National Soccer League by many years. Tonight's game is important for both teams and there is no doubt that it will be an engaging, competitive match with either West Adelaide consolidating our position in the six or South Melbourne getting closer to threatening for a place.

It was with great sadness that we all heard the news that Stan Lazaridis broke his leg playing for West Ham against Grimsby in an FA Cup tie. Stan will be in plaster for 8 to 10 weeks and he may possibly be released to recuperate in this period in Australia. Our very best regards to Stan and we are sure he will come back stronger than ever and build on the sixteen games that he has already played.

Whilst we are talking about individual players, congratulations are in order to Robbie Hooker for his inclusion in the Australian senior team and his excellent performances to date. Also, congratulations to Ross Aloisi and Richie Alagich for a great tournament with the Olyroos.

Finally I stress to supporters the importance of our own crowd figures improving markedly in the last half of the season. The team is playing attractive entertaining soccer, spread the word, bring your friends, let's get West Adelaide where we are accustomed, back to near the top of the crowd averages. Enjoy the evening.

At the outset, having AFL clubs participating in the Ericsson Cup by nominating teams sounds like a great idea. Who wouldn't want the most popular spectator sport in Australia being involved with soccer? Sounds great doesn't it? Think of all those people we could tap into and all of the resources available to the Carlton's and Essendon's of this world. It seems a great idea when you first think of it, but if you are a listener to 3AW's Saturday afternoon sports show headed by David Hookes and Gerard Healy, then you may think twice about the idea.

"AFL CLUBS LOOKING AFTER SOCCER'S INTEREST, I'D LIKE TO SEE THAT"

When discussing soccer with Paul Wade in the regular soccer segment, the topic arose about the AFL and Rugby League clubs entering applications for the 1996/97 season. Listening to Paul Wade you would think that soccer people are of the belief that only good would come from such a marriage. After years of poor media, linking with the AFL would provide soccer with a bonanza of coverage. But this came from a soccer person's perspective who is looking, as always, at the positives and how the game could benefit. But if you listened to Gerard Healy (an AFL commentator and past great player) a different picture emerges, one which may not please soccer officials and supporters. It would seem that if the AFL clubs sponsored a soccer club it would be on the proviso that the football club would have to benefit financially. As Healy put it "it would be like sleeping with the enemy". If the soccer club was not financially viable then it would get the chop. It is as simple as that. Nothing would be allowed to continue if it would make a loss as the football club would suffer. To illustrate the point, Gerard Healy spoke to a representative from the Footscray Football Club detailing Footscray's purchase of the Melbourne

Monarchs baseball team in the Australian Baseball League. Footscray purchased the Monarchs wholly and ran the team. The Monarchs made a profit for Footscray over a number of years but the club ran at a loss in the last year. As a consequence, Footscray are now looking to off load the Monarchs as the loss affected the Footscray Football Club bottom line. During the course of the interview with the Footscray official, it became perfectly clear that the purchase of any other club (soccer or otherwise) would be purely a commercial decision and the club would be treated accordingly. If it could not be sold then it would cease to operate, its assets (players and other assets) would be sold off and the club dissolved. Healy made the point and the Footscray official agreed that football clubs are willing to operate other clubs if there was a benefit to the football club. To leave soccer clubs at the mercy of AFL clubs hungry for revenue would be criminal. Soccer must realise that there are no free rides, and everyone must look after themselves. AFL clubs want to fully utilise their facilities which lie dormant for a large part of the year and they don't particularly care whether its soccer, baseball, basketball or hockey clubs which can fill their pockets. Too much history has developed, too much sweat has been shed and too much sacrifice by supporters and members has been given in order that soccer is where it is today.

Make no mistake, AFL clubs only care for themselves. To believe that a Carlton or Essendon would have soccer's best interest at heart would be like believing in fairies at the bottom of the garden.

WEST ADELAIDE SHARKS V SOUTH MELBOURNE

South Melbourne under the astute guidance of the master blaster Frank (the legend) Arok will be entertained at Hindmarsh Stadium tonight in what promises to be intriguing at the very least. Frank Arok is a true genius and guru of football and as he has never been known for being predictable this will for certain be a major component in tonight's clash. The Doomsman's vision for the encounter has the South Melbourne Blues starting as unconventional as one would expect from the wizard, but still be maintaining strength and versatility for a decisive build up and execution. The Sharks must remain focussed and defend their style as South have a desperate agenda to keep, the Sharks therefore can circle and deliquedate any South "sortie" and a chance of chances is to bury them in the deep "Blue's" sea and kill off that attitude at the same time.

The Doomsman sees the Blues situation bordering soon on the side of despair so a positive result for them is imperative and as the challenge is nearing the point of no return, those precious premiership points are there for both teams to take and I think the Sharks will not only take it, but eat the chances in a convincing manner. Prediction is Sharks 5 Blues 1 and definitely entertaining in a crucial fixture as a new Titan is about to rise. The Doomsman has spoken. So it is written, so shall it be done.

WHAT IS INJURY TIME?

We are all used to hearing the whistles from the crowd after 45 minutes are up in the second half. In recent times however games have been extended for 5.6 even 10 minutes in total. This is not because referee's watches are slow or that they get paid overtime but due to FIFA wanting to maximise playing time.

In the 1990 world cup the average time that the ball was in play was around 60 minutes out of a possible 90 per game. FIFA felt that the spectators and viewers were the ones being short changed and support for our wonderful game suffered accordingly.

Referee's are now instructed to allow extra time in each half for the following

- * injury
- * substitution
- * setting up defensive walls
- * verbal warnings, cautions and send offs
- * ball out of play for extended periods

In recent times you would have also seen the procedure for injuries change and referee's clamp down on players who stand over the ball or kick the ball away to prevent a quick free kick being taken.

This is all due to FIFA wanting to maximise effective playing time.

Just think, the extra 5 or 10 minutes that is added to a game can quite often be the most exciting part. That's just the image that we want to create to attract more spectators.

THE PREDATORS

DISTINCTIVE

Hello, hello, hello all you Sharks supporters out there. Well what a great couple of weeks its been for us in the A-League. The last two home games have truly seen the Sharks play with conviction which has been lacking in recent years.

SHARKS ON TOUR

WOLLONGONG HOME WIN (3-1)

O.K. repeat after me: Cyrille Ndongo-Keller is an absolute champion. What else can you say about him. After the small hiccup with his injury he has come back and in three halves of soccer, scored four goals which includes the hat trick against Wollongong (a team which until this year seemed to have the wood on us)

AUSTRALIA V JAPAN

Feb 10th 1996 AUSTRALIA 1 JAPAN 4

Why? Why? Why? so many changes. Why is Robbie Hooker playing left back when he has been getting best player on the park week after week. Why is Messers Thomson and Shienflug playing so many people out of position to what they are accustomed to for their club sides. They have in the squad no less than four sweepers; Hooker, Ivanovic, Blagojevic, Wade. We have a player in the national squad who is playing left back who never plays there. Surely he could have played for us against Wollongong without too much break in plans. After all Marconi's players and South Melbourne players were released why not our player. Again against South Melbourne, we will be without one of our best players and sweeper due to his international call up to play left back.

Robbie is a good friend of the Predators, and we wish him all the best in his career but realistically what is Eddie Thomson experimenting for. In the years during the next qualifiers Robbie will be 32 years old, Paul Wade will be 39, John Markovski will weigh...? What place do these players have in the Australian National team of the future. It would have been more beneficial if the Olyroos had played Japan to toughen up.

SUPPORTERS PLAYER OF THE YEAR

The Sharks player who shows the best silky skills on the playing field as voted by the PREDATORS members will be crowned SUPPORTERS PLAYER OF THE YEAR.

Once again we have the pleasure of entertaining South Melbourne our sister club. Of course this notion of sister club vanished a long time ago and in its place an intense rivalry and competition has emerged between the two clubs. When South Melbourne plays against West Adelaide it is no different to any other club. Unfortunately, a number of our supporters still hold a soft spot for South Melbourne and they have some romantic notion that being a club from a similar background that somehow they should show some allegiance to them. Nothing could be from the truth. South Melbourne and its supporters care for West Adelaide as much as a circling Shark cares for its prey. Having attended Wests 3-2 win earlier in the season in Melbourne, I can attest to the fact that the Blues supporters are as hostile towards our team and supporters than any other team. Their treatment of our officials was not the best either. Sure they have a new ground, sure they are well supported, sure they can boast the support of Kennett and Co. but this in no way makes up for their arrogance. When in Adelaide their officials and players are treated like V.I.P.'s, as they should. Somehow this treatment doesn't transpire into similar treatment for the Sharks. But back to the game.

This encounter is what is called a six pointer. With eight points separating the two sides a win for South Melbourne would bring South's within two games of the Sharks. A win for the Sharks would put South Melbourne out of the race. Bang, like that. Their season would be over. Playing catch up ball is a losing battle, one mistake and your back to square one. One hopes that they end up chasing their tails.

South Melbourne used to be called the Melbourne Millionaires, at other times they were called the Baby Blues, Alan Davidson called them not good enough. In any case with all of their resources, South Melbourne have failed to live up to some ill thought up notion that they were perpetual finalists. A sort of being born to rule idea. Well, at least Greg Blake thinks so.

Over the last few years South Melbourne have lost a number of talented players, Francis Awaratife, Steve Mautone, Con Boutsianis, Angie Goutsoulis, Paul Wade, Kimon Taliadoros. I could think of others but I am not one of the South Melbourne faithful. A few of these "castaways" have come back to haunt them, in particular Paul Wade and only last week, Francis Awaratife with a hat tick to beat them 4-1 at Lakeside Oval. One must wonder why South Melbourne loses so many players of quality if the picture was so rosy. The truth is that South Melbourne are caught up in their own press. Their belief that they are amongst the elite of Australia even though they are struggling does not give them the opportunity for reflection. Unfortunately, someone has turned out the lights and has forgotten to tell them.

West Adelaide have the opportunity to end a dismal season for South Melbourne and so also possibly end the reign of Frank Arok at the helm. Chances are though that the white shoe brigade outside the Medallion Cafe in the heart of Melbourne will be planning BIG things for our sister club, who knows maybe Barcelona have South Melbourne firmly in their sights.

The women have been training for eight weeks now, and the hard work and time that they have put in is starting to show. For the players in their first season, they are showing remarkable skills and their commitment is second to none. In fact it is fair to say that they are showing some of the senior players what dedication and hard work can get you.

We are pleased to announce that our first training match is scheduled for Sunday 25th of February. The games kick off at 1pm and both teams will play their respective counterparts from Noarlunga.

Come down and support the players and find out for yourselves just how skilled some of these players are.

You will be astounded with our own pocket rocket Kristy Moore (last years highest goal scorer for her club and also a State and Australian U19 player and now also a member of the Olympic Athlete Programme).

You will also see the two year wonder Felicity Forby who in only her second season has been selected in the State Team and the Australian U19 squad. There is also Ice Box Bec a State player who is one of the coolest players on the park and also first year player Dimi Lekkas who has earned herself the tag Flash. We also have Kondy and Angie, our own two little ferrets who will get under any defenders skin to win a ball and have a shot. We all hope that you will be there to support the girls and your club.

WEST ADELAIDE WOLLONGONG

V

The most pleasing thing to see of the Sharks and Wolves clash was the way the two teams played purposeful and positive for a result. The Doomsman saw, how at the very least, the replacement players that were substituted in, carried on into the fray as though they had been involved in the whole game from the start. Next, was the teams willingness to maintain pattern and positive style even when stretched into a defensive mode keeping at bay a possible resurgence from the Wolves. This aptitude and harmony, is showing as though veterans have played for years, however complacency is what the Doomsman fears because there are teams above the Sharks that are firing, albeit, maybe a "tod" early but never the less are keeping their noses in a challenging front, the hard stuff is as always still yet to come especially when the Sharks confront the teams above them.

It sure is refreshing to see King Cyrille link immediately into the fray after a long spell and be complimented with a splendid hat-trick that came from a ton of sorties in the first half and "gel" again into the second stint. The added danger is as the Doomsman sees it is the sharpness of the Sharks that was lacking early and were punished accordingly by an eager team itching to scratch their way off the cellar status. This cannot be tolerated otherwise teams above the Sharks will grasp that error and try to punish as soon as possible especially when the Sharks visit their clubs with their hostile environments.

Intense as the match against the Wolves was, the Doomsman saw far more pluses than cracks and as the tempo of the season heats up, the more the talents, the playing styles and individual performances are all coming to the front as Blanco's Babes are hot on the park and cool under pressure, I'd say we're on a roll. Carn the Sharks, life is short, take the chance and eat it.
